

JENNIFER MCGUIRE

is the whistleblower who cracked open a corrupt Government Owned Corporation Executive. It became her mission to represent young females that had been sexually harassed and bullied. She didn't turn a blind eye to take the hush money secret deal and sign a non-disclosure agreement to silence her. Instead, she took the fight to them. In the process, she discovered so much more...

An engaging and motivating speaker, Jennifer will reveal her shocking personal battle and provide you with firsthand insight to understand if your organisation is heading towards a Corporate Storm, what you can do about it and, most importantly, how you can survive it.

Jennifer delivers serious organisation-changing messages in a personable, accessible way by easily connecting with any audience with her warm and conversational style.

She finally shares her story after sitting quietly, waiting to be heard because of the Crime & Corruption Commission and Treasury investigations that ensued. She discloses about what she did and demystifies the serious, elevated investigation processes.

With over 25 years of extensive professional experience in leadership positions, built on a solid foundation of business academic knowledge, Jennifer understands that relevant stories and practical examples are crucial to the success of your event, with a key take-home message to promote further learning and growth.

Tailoring her talk to the interests of your organization and your audience, Jennifer works with both intimate groups and large auditoriums.

She can communicate for change with all levels of an organization by tailoring to:

1. Employees and team members
2. Managers and frontline leaders
3. Executive and the Board

Engage Jennifer for a presentation, team-building workshop, awareness-raising talk, or a more interactive seminar that is guaranteed to be interesting, engaging and a catalyst for change.
